Sought: Artistic enhancement of T station

PATRIOT LEDGER STAFF

QUINCY — The MBTA will host an informational session from 6 to 7 p.m. Wednesday, Aug. 12, at 100 Summer St. in Boston for artists interested in creating art at the Wollaston T station.

The project goals are to contribute to the vibrancy of the Wollaston neighborhood, enhance the station, create a warm and welcoming environment, and strengthen the connection between the station and the community, the T says.

The deadline for entries is Monday, Aug. 24. Preference will be given to artists from the region.

Program guidelines are available online at http://www.mbta.com/about\_the\_mbta/art/.

The T is also seeking expressions of interest from artists who might want to create art at the downtown Chelsea station and Blue Hill Avenue station.
